—John W. Mackay is unofficially credited with being a heavy shareholder in Hale & Norcross and in accord with Alvinza Hayward and W. S. Hobart in the management of the mine.

—Croup, whooping cough, sore throat, sudden cold, and the lung troubles peculiar to children, are easily controlled by promptly administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This remedy is safe to take, and certain in its action.

—"It is worth its weight in gold," is a common expression. But, while the value of gold is easily affected, the worth of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as a blood purifier, never depreciates. It will eradicate scrofula from the system when everything else fails.

THE PUBLIC BUILDING

The Supervising Architect will advertise for bids.

From a private letter from Washington the APPEAL makes the following extracts:

The Government Building matter has assumed this shape: The supervising Architect and Senator Stewart have been in consultation in regard to the matter a number of times, and have agreed upon this plan:

Mr. Freret, the Supervising Architect, who shows a great desire to help as much as possible in the construction of the building, will at once advertise for bids on the plans first adopted, for the reason that it will save the time which would be lost in drawing new plans. As about $20,000 has already been expended out of the appropriation (the statement of Mr. Ryland to the contrary being wrong) an additional appropriation is of course necessary.

The Superintendent therefor has already had incorporated an appropriation of $36,000 in the Urgency Deficiency bill. This bill will soon be considered by Congress, and Sen. Stewart will make a determined fight, if it becomes necessary, to get the appropriation, which will thus make nearly $120,000 for the building. I do not believe there will be any trouble in the Senate as to the $36,000, because Stanford is Chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, before whom this item in the deficiency bill will be considered.

If satisfactory bids can be obtained of which I do not think there will be any trouble, the citizens of Carson will see in a short time something else besides a lot bearing a luxuriant growth of weeds, enclosed by an unsightly fence.

A Type-writer Gone.

For some weeks the editor of the APPEAL has enjoyed the use of his new type-writer. But the same is no more. Yesterday it was left in a chair and a copy of the Examiner carelessly thrown over it. Up comes State Treasurer Tuffy and sits in that same chair. When he rose to go, the remains of this once beautiful piece of machinery were discovered.

We shall put in a bill against the State, and hope the Examining Board will allow us something on the bill.

A SUBLIME DESERT DANCE.

The Waltzing Sand Augers Which Reach Miles High in Nevada.

"You have heard of the dance of death, and the dance of this, that and the other," said Joseph Grandlemeyer, the White Pine mining man to an Examiner reporter. "Out in Nevada we have what we call the dance of the giants, and any observer would think so too, if he looked at them.

They are no less than great cylinders of sand which waltz over the desert with graceful motions and reach high in the sky. They are from eight to twenty feet in diameter at the bottom, and do not widen or narrow as they go upwards.

"In this respects they differ from the cyclone of the East, which, being also spiral, widens like the funnel toward the top, while its bottom bores into the ground often digging a trench, and sucking up horses, barns, trees and everything else in its path.

"The sand column or cylinder, however, has, like the latter, both a circular and a forward motion. They start from a little or nothing, being a sort of an incipient whirlwind, while all the surrounding air is still. Then they develop to about the size I have said. They seem to get their start in the rather loose soil along some old road, and from this they grow to gigantic size and waltz miles over the desert.

"In alluvial soil they cut very deep, while in the gravelly soil they do not have so much effect; yet I have known them, in addition to taking up fabulous quantities of sand, to take up tons of sagebrush and good-sized stones.

"It is a strange sight coming along these deserts sometimes to see three or four, or even more of these waltzing sand auger. Usually there is one big auger and a whole lot of little ones, all dancing along at short distances from each other.

"Some of these great sand cylinders I have seen reach from two to three miles high, into the clouds. It is a fantastic sight to see them away out on the lonesome desert.

"Summer time is the only time they exist, and they waltz along for hundreds of miles. They are thickest in July. In White Pine valley, which runs from the Humboldt to the Colorado river, for a distance of over 350 miles, there are oftentimes many of them. In the Snake valley, too, which is 280 miles long there are a good many, and they sometimes got to be from twenty to thirty feet in diameter.

"They are also seen in Pioche valley, which is about 280 miles long. All these valleys are from twenty to forty miles wide each. They vary somewhat, but this is about how they run.

"Every year a queer lot of colossal sand augers come waltzing down Spring valley from Idaho into the Phragat valley. It is an intensely sublime sight, and the observer is filled with awe at the majestic movements of the great silent dancers."

A Laze-Sick Truckee Man.

TRUCKEE, Feb. 9.—E. G. Wyckoff was arrested last evening for drawing a pistol and threatening to shoot Mrs. Emma Rosa Bettelle. It appears that Wyckoff, who has been keeping company with Mrs. Bettelle for some time, became enraged at seeing her returning from a theatrical performance under the escort of Major Bruce. He would have undoubtedly shot the lady but for the gallant interference of Major Bruce, who made him put up his weapon.

Just then a constable coming up, took Wyckoff in custody and placed him in the cooler. He was tried this afternoon before a jury in Justice Dunster's Court for assault, and was found guilty and sentenced to a fine of $50 or fifty days' imprisonment.

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

A Satisfactory Solution of it Probable in the Near Future.

Belmont, Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, said Wednesday that negotiations have been pending for an amicable settlement of the Chinese question, and were now reaching completion. He understood in fact, that the draft of the proposed treaty had been transmitted to the Chinese Minister containing such modifications of the existing treaties as would bring about a complete exclusion of that class of emigrants to which the people of the Western coast objected. He believed that within a month we would effectually dispose of the question.

Belmont further said that any treaty arrangement with China to prevent Chinese emigration would, of course, have to be supplemented by some stringent legislation, and perhaps by some treaty stipulations with Great Britain, to suppress the introduction of Chinese coolie labor by way of Hongkong and Vancouver by which our present restrictive laws were largely avoided. It was understood that there would be no difficulty on this score.

Belmont added that no clause permitting the extradition of a citizen of the United States for any political offense is included in the British extradition treaty.
